Zero Wave Is Pushing East Across State

Western Pennsylvania Hard Hit By Sub-Zero Storm

THOUSANDS WORK ON STATE HIGHWAYS

Temperatures As Low As 10 Degrees Below Zero Reported

(International News Service)

Biting winds whipped snow that came with the winter's worst storm into drifts as the mercury sank to sub-zero marks, setting low records in many sections of Pennsylvania today.

Temperatures ranging from 10 degrees below to 19 degrees below zero prevailed throughout the state. Weather predictions today brought little comfort to others than western Pennsylvania residents.

In that section which was hard hit by the storm, the mercury was expected to soar. In central and eastern Pennsylvania zero temperatures were predicted for tonight, indicating the freezing spell is sweeping eastward.

Snowplows On Roads.

The state highway department sent a record crew of 3,700 men to work with nearly a thousand snowplows clearing drifted highways which impeded motor transportation throughout the state. All highways except a few secondary roads in Adams and Franklin counties were reported passable.

Trains throughout the western section of the state were delayed by the violent winds which whirled the snow into firm drifts.

Throughout the night the blizzard raged taking at least two lives as

PA NEW OBSERVES

The West Washington street grade at the bridge began to get icy Tuesday afternoon and was given a heavy application of ashes in time to save a line of automobiles from skidding down it, and having serious collisions. One car, Pa. New is told, did a queer half turn before the grade was ashed, and was righted in the driveway to the Pennsylvania station.

A local merchant says that his company repaired an unusually large number of toy electric trains this year. He said that in most cases the parents had purchased the trains a number of years ago for the oldest boys of the families. Younger boys of the families became electric train conscious and so that is what they were given for Christmas.

Outstanding in the snow this morning was the holly tree and its bright green leaves on the lawn at the corner of Mercer and Grant St. This tree, which is a nice specimen, is the only holly tree in the city.

Last week during the warm spell Pa. New noticed some budding leaves on a rose bush at his front door, but this morning those little buds were nipped by the cold.

This morning's near-zero temperature was the coldest of the season. The official reading at the U. S. Weather Observing Station was one above zero, but many residents of the city and county reported temperatures of zero and as far as 8 below. During the cold snap the middle of the month four above zero was the lowest.

Pa. New saw three automobiles this morning being pushed down North Jefferson street. The autos refused to start.

Conditions under foot are worse today than they have been at any

Several Changes In Police Force To Occur Next Week Says Chief

There will be a change in the personnel of the city police department effective January 1, according to Police Chief John F. Haven. It will result in the elevation of three members and the change of two other members of the department.

The changes recommended by Chief Haven and which it is said will be confirmed by Mayor Charles Mayne are as follows:

Motorcycle Patrolman Ralph Criswell to night lieutenant of police to succeed Lieutenant Pete Hillers.

Patrolman Willis McMullen, finger-print expert to have the rank of police lieutenant and to have charge of detectives.

Patrolman John G. Moore to city detective, in place of Detective John Young.

The present lieutenant of police, Peter Hillers, will work out of the police station as a driver.

The first indication of the proposed changes came during today's informal meeting of council which started compilation of the 1934 appropriations.

In designating the amount of salaries for the police department the mayor explained that McMullen's duties and said the chief of police had recommended McMullen be made a lieutenant of police with jurisdiction over the detectives.

It was then intimated that other changes would occur.

Following the session Mayor Mayne said the chief of police had suggested the changes to which the mayor indicated he would acquiesce.

Roosevelt Is Getting Ready For Congress

President Busily Engaged In Preparing Two Important Messages For Congress

SIX BILLION TO BE FUND NEEDED

Congress Will Re-Assemble January 3 For Session Of Undetermined Length

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—President Roosevelt plunged into a busy week of preparation today for the return of congress. It re-assembles next Wednesday for a session of undetermined length.

If the White House and the Democratic leadership have their way it will be a short session, devoted principally to approval of the budget, voting additional billions of dollars to the furtherance of the recovery program, and revision of the tax laws in the light of changed conditions since last June.

Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor the Democratic leaders believe any broad legislative program is necessary or desirable at this time, rather, they believe what the country needs is to proceed along the path already marked out by existing legislation.

Two Messages

The president will submit two messages next week, the first dealing with the general state of the nation, and the second with financial recommendations. Both are in state of preparation. The regular budget will call for approximately $2,600,000,000. Additional financing of the

Name Clerks In Liquor Stores

New Castle And Ellwood City Appointments Announced

MERCER COUNTY WINNERS KNOWN

Appointments of clerks in the state liquor stores to be operated in New Castle and Ellwood City were announced today by the state liquor control board. The appointments follow: New Castle: Harold Harris, Andrew L. Hannon, Joseph F. Diffley, Hyman Levine and Alan Kay Cutright; Ellwood City: Charles R. Dicks, Robert W. Jones, Frank M. Demaso, Angelo D. Gregorio.

No appointments of cashiers, loaders or truck drivers have been made as yet. One stenographer for the Ellwood City store has been named, but none for the New Castle store. Only one assistant manager has been named in this county and it is assumed that another will be named.

Apparently Two Shifts

From the appointments it seems there will be two shifts operating the stores, as the hours are from nine a. m. to nine p. m. There is also good reason to believe that Louis Guntion will be the manager of the New Castle store and Robert W. Taylor the manager of the Ellwood City store.

The notifications for 1,002 appointments over the state were in the mail today, notifying men and women of their selection for service in the liquor stores. District superintendents and warehouse superintendents have been named and apparently the employed personnel will be filled up by the time the stores are to open, January 2.

Mercer county appointments include: Mercer—James H. Pressler; Farrell, Alfred Schermer; Sharon, Alfred B. Lewis; Joseph P. Merrick, Harold Cohen, Charles E. Myers, Jr., Howard M. McGuistion, Paul P. Egan, Paul E. Bodamer, Greenville, Allen B. Hoffman, Pulaski; Fredonia, James O. Taylor; Greenville, John F. Campbell, Thomas B. Sullivan.

The work of installing the bins and shelving and remodeling the interior of the New Castle state liquor store on Produce street is going forward with all haste and it is expected that it will be ready for opening on January 2.

Snow Plows Clear Drifted Highways

State Highway Workers Keep Main Thoroughfares In County Open

When a heavy wind began drifting highways in the county last night a force of workmen was started out with the snowplows to keep the main thoroughfares open. It was stated by Highway Department employees here this morning.

All the main thoroughfares were clear for traffic but some of the dirt roads in the county may be pretty badly drifted. The wind rose last evening after the snow had stopped falling the low spots and sheltered places began to fill up rapidly.

Democrats Not To Tamper With Recovery Plans

Policy Outlined Today Springs From Desire Not To Buck "New Deal"

LEADERS PLEDGE IS "HANDS OFF"

Nothing Will Be Allowed To Block Path Of Roosevelt In Recovery Aims

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Democratic leaders in congress have adopted a policy of "no tampering" with the recovery laws passed in the special session last spring except upon specific request of President Roosevelt.

The policy, as outlined today, springs both from a desire to prevent any possible revolt against the "new deal" measures and from a belief the laws will lead the nation toward prosperity.

Codes Being Signed
Included in the scope of this policy are the National Recovery Act under which industry and business is being subjected to codes, the agricultural relief administration, the home loan, financial, banking and farm relief measures.

Some recommendations for additions or modifications are expected from the administration, but it is

Thousands Attend Paris Mass Funeral

(International News Service)
PARIS, Dec. 27.—Thousands crowded into the Gare De L'est today to pay homage to the victims of the tragic Lagny train wreck in a state funeral service attended by President Albert Lebrun and other leading government officials.

The services were broadcast by radio throughout France, and flags on official buildings everywhere were flown at half-mast in honor of the more than 200 persons who lost their lives in the crash.

The engineer and fireman of the speeding Paris-Strasbourg express train, which crashed into the rear of a standing train of wooden coaches, were released following official examination of an automatic signal record carried in the cab of their engine.

This record showed that warning signals failed to work on the night of the crash, and that the express train speeded on with the trainmen unaware of the impending crash it was too late to stop. The signals, instead of indicating the parked train ahead, showed a clear track.

Eight Fishermen Die As Result Of Storm On Lake Michigan

SUB-ZERO WEATHER STAYS TOMORROW

New York City Battles With 10-Inch Snow; Thousands Clear Streets

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Battered by death-dealing blizzards that claimed eight lives on Lake Michigan and numbed by frigid temperatures, the middle west today suffered from bitter sub-zero temperatures in the most severe cold of the winter.

Falling steadily throughout the night, the mercury reached an official low of 14 degrees below zero at Chicago Airport, surpassing the all time record of ten below for Dec. 27 set in 1903.

The extreme cold was general throughout the central states. It was 38 below at Eveleth, Minn., 18 below at Charles City, Ia., 24 below at Duluth, Minn., and 14 below at Sioux City, Ia.

Meteorologists promised only a brief respite from the numbing cold later today, explaining that a new cold wave was pushing its way into the central states with additional sub-zero weather for tomorrow. More snow will precede the new frigid wave.

Fishermen Die.

Eight fishermen went to their deaths in the icy waves of Lake Michigan during a whirling blizzard that upset two fishing tugs in the high seas. The Tug Bremen of South Haven, Mich., went down near that port with her crew of four. When only 100 yards from port at Michigan City the tug Martha overturned and its crew of four men were drowned.

In Chicago two additional deaths from exposure brought the cold wave toll here to six fatalities. Both tragedies on Lake Michigan occurred within sight of would-be rescuers on shore who were powerless.

Officers Hunt Texas Bandits

(BULLETIN)

MARLIN, Tex., Dec. 27.—Law enforcement officers searched today for two bandits who this morning robbed the First State Bank of Marlin of approximately $40,000 and kidnapped three employees of the institution.

The two bandits entered the bank at 8:30 a. m., just in time to be present when the time lock on the vault perked it to be opened.

The robbers fled in a black sedan, carrying with them M. V. Bradshaw, cashier of the bank, a Miss Payton, the bookkeeper, and a negro porter.

A few minutes later the bandit automobile was reported seen at Riesel, a short distance south of Marlin. It was believed the bandits may be headed for Houston.

CONFESSED BOY SLAYER SAYS HE WAS HIRED

Police Seek To Find Employer

Prisoner Taken To Penitentiary To Guard Against Possible Mob Violence

OFFICIALS REPORT CONFESSION MADE

(International News Service) COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 27.—Authorities questioned Robert H. Wiles, jobless auto mechanic, further today in an effort to learn the identity of the person who assertedly "hired" him to kidnap Herbert Harris Jr., 15 year old high school boy found slain in a deserted house.

Behind the sheltering walls of the state penitentiary Wiles confessed, according to Sheriff Alex Heise, that he lured the youth to the farm house and there beat him to death when Harris tried to flee.

Wiles said he had been engaged by a second person to abduct the boy, whose wealthy father is a chain store executive here. Sheriff Heise said he was convinced the mechanic had acted as an agent for another person.

Fear Mob Action
John M. Rushton, one-time employee of the elder Harris, was still being held at the penitentiary for questioning. Denied all knowledge of the asserted kidnapping and slaying.

The sheriff hurried Wiles into the penitentiary office to prevent possible mob violence. Crowds gathered outside the forbidding prison walls when it was reported that Wiles had admitted beating the youth to death with an iron bar and hiding his victim's body beneath a pile of old cotton waste material in the abandoned farm house. The crowds remained orderly, however.

less to aid the floundering fishing tugs. A third tragedy was narrowly averted when Capt. Chris Jensen and his crew of two men managed to beach their tug, The Tuscarora, before waves engulfed the helpless craft. Jensen and his men battled through the surf to safety.

Engine trouble was believed responsible for the Bremen going down. The dead were Albert Balow, owner; his son, Frank, 19; Irwin Carter, 40, and Harry Stevens, 40.

HEAVY SNOW IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Poking its nose from beneath a 10.7 inch snowfall, heaviest in seven years, New York and the Northeast Seaboard today were greeted with announcement that more snow and cold are on the way from New York.

Escaping the bitter sub-zero temperatures which prevailed in the northwestern and midwest states, the northeast section nevertheless felt stinging cold.

The gale, reaching a maximum of 30 miles an hour, swirled a blinding snow curtain over the Metropolitan area, clogging streets and highways, slowing down rail traffic, paralyzing air transport and bringing ocean and coastwise shipping activities to a temporary halt.

Thousands Shovel Snow.

Planes were grounded at all airports and it was not until the snow ceased, late last night, that an attempt was made to resume air mail operations by dispatch of a west-bound plane from Newark.

Although dozens of motor accidents were caused by the heavy snow and two ferry boats collided while groping across the Hudson, no fatalities attributable to the storm were reported in the New York area.

An army of 32,000 unemployed the snow brought a measure of joy when they were called out to aid regular city forces in clearing streets and roadways.

A "mystery airplane" which hummed over New York for three hours at the height of the storm yesterday remained a mystery this morning. No airport in the metropolitan area reported a plane missing and no emergency landing or crash was reported within a 50-mile radius.

Schools Plan To Operate Cheaper

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Schools are receiving $133,000,000 less in the 1933-34 period than they did for the previous year, George F. Zook, U. S. commissioner of education reported today as he pictured prospects for a further slash in teachers' salaries.

Many cities, he observed, are maintaining their schools only on borrowed money. He cited a 1.2 per cent increase in appropriations devoted to interest payments. Zook's figures were included in a survey, "city schools and the economic situation." It compares the urban school outlays of the 1932-33 and the 1933-34 periods.

These statistics, he said show that city schools have 18,000 fewer teachers than they had in 1930, with an addition of 50,000 pupils.

Only a few cities, he said, have been able to maintain the prevailing average for salaries, while some have made slashes as high as 45 per cent. The average salary decrease is estimated at 15 per cent.

ity they may find it difficult if not impossible to set up a program of effective opposition.

Call For Opposition

Such a program, however, was called for today by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania. He predicted a battle over the administration's monetary policies, and called upon the Republicans to present a vocal and constructive opposition.

Reed criticized the president of four counts (1) his acceptance of the Thomas amendment which would permit currency inflation, (2) the abandonment of the gold standard, (3) the gold buying experiment, and (4) the silver policy.

In the Pennsylvania's opinion these monetary policies have retarded rather than advanced national recovery.

Need Confidence

"There is nothing we need so much at the present as confidence," he said. "If the president will put his foot down and say flatly 'no' to the inflationists there would be such an outburst of confidence as we have not seen since the depression."

Reed probably will occupy the role of opposition leader in the senate, although McNary will be the titular leader. As a matter of fact, McNary is more or less in agreement with many administration policies, along with his progressive colleagues. This fact is expected to make Reed the real opposition spokesman.

the mercury, especially in western Pennsylvania, fell below the zero mark.

Several Deaths.

Leonard Kethaby, 47, father of three children, was found dead beside a railroad track in Erie. He was believed to have been blinded by a raging snowstorm and failed to see an approaching train.

The frozen body of John Rankin, 74, was discovered in a snow bank near Uniontown. The cold indirectly caused the death of Vito Chandulla, Philadelphia teamster, trampled to death while leading horses up a slippery hill.

Temperatures dropped to 10 below in the mountain regions. Lows of two and four degrees below zero were recorded in Westmoreland county. The mercury in other places read: Carnegie, four below; Tarentum, one below; Pittsburgh, one above; Harrisburg, 11 above; Philadelphia, 19 above.

Councilmen Making Up Appropriations For Year; Discuss Tax Rate

Task of making appropriations for the city for 1934 was this morning in city hall when present councilmen met with councilmen-elect, Joseph Alexander and B. P. Butler. After several hours work, the tentative budget was set at $424,756 for general revenue purposes. For 1933, it was $406,276.

The tax levy for 1933 was 10 1/4 mills divided as follows: general revenue 7 3/4 mills, sinking fund 2 mills and library, 1/2 mill. It was indicated that to raise the amount required it might be necessary to raise the millage for 1934 to 11 mills.

The assessed valuation for 1933 was about $57,000,000. It was stated. Due to a decrease in the triennial assessments made recently it was stated today the assessed valuation for tax purposes for 1934, will be about $50,000,000.

Go Go Over Figures
At the conclusion of the morning's work, which is to be resumed this afternoon, Finance Director Hoyland suggested each councilman again go over his tentative figures. He indicated that if each could make a five percent cut, the millage might be kept at 10 1/4 mills.

The appropriations tentatively arranged this morning follows:
Public affairs, $87,374; amount for 1933, $82,654.
Finance and accounts, $24,080; amount for 1933, $26,770.
Public safety, $189,239; amount for 1933, $186,689.
Streets and improvements, $49,165; amount for 1933 $49,715.
Parks and buildings, $42,898; amount for 1933, $44,248.
Miscellaneous, $32,000; amount for 1933, $16,200.

It will be noted that in the appropriation for miscellaneous purposes the sum has jumped considerably. Included in the proposed appropriation is $17,000, any part of which, and up to the full amount, can be used by the city to buy tools and materials with which CWA projects will be put through here. The council indicated that the city will receive benefit of work worth about $165,000.

The city also proposes to purchase a police radio and three new automobiles for the police department. The present cars and motorcycles will be traded in on the new automobiles.

One Increase In Salary
Only one increase in salary was suggested. According to the opinion of Director of parks and buildings L. G. Genkinger, Frank Nugent receives less than the men who work under his jurisdiction.

Every member of council agreed this situation was not exactly right and all agreed that he not only directs operations well at the sewage disposal plant but is "a man who has been used on all kinds of work in every department." His salary will be raised, according to the proposed budget from about $1500 to about $1800.

Due to the elevation of Willis McMullen from the rank of a patrolman to lieutenant of police in charge of detectives he will receive an increase of about $13 a month in salary.

According to City Controller Phil Greer who was requested to aid council indications are there will have to be an increase in the millage if council stands by the proposed appropriations of $424,756. He said that in 1932 one third of the taxes had not been paid and that there is outstanding for 1933, about $159,000.

Francis, of New Wilmington; James R. Francis, of New Castle; Mrs. Edith Whitney, of Long Lane, Missouri; Mrs. Mildred McPherson, of Pittsburgh; and Mrs. Lee McCracken, of Slippery Rock.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DEMOCRATS NOT TO TAMPER WITH RECOVERY PLANS

unlikely the basic principles will be altered if the Democratic leaders can prevent.

"I hope it will not be necessary to amend the recovery acts," said Rep. Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic leader of the house.

The recent action of President Roosevelt in conferring broad power on the national labor board may avoid amendment to the act establishing the NRA.

There is a strong demand upon progressives for reinstatement of the anti-trust laws. It is charged the NRA has operated to weaken unorganized business at the expense of powerfully organized and financed groups.

Minimum Prices

Revision of the farm relief act would bring forth a strong fight for minimum prices on agricultural products.

The proposal for an appropriation of $200,000,000 to aid in "financing the livestock industry," it is said by leaders, can be enacted without disturbing the basic principles of the farm relief law.

There are strong demands to put a government guarantee behind the bonds of the farm loan and home loan organizations, in addition to the present guarantee of interest.

Democratic leaders asserted the word of the chief executive on revision of the veterans economy act will be awaited before action is taken. The president is expected to propose some modifications.

NEW HOUSE CAUSE OF EXCITEMENT

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Dec. 27.—Cripple Creek residents recently staged an impromptu celebration when they saw workmen constructing a new residence. It was the first new house to go up in this once-famous gold camp since 1906. Living quarters have been at a premium since the recent revival of gold mining.

BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 27.—The ancient ruins in the Aztec National monument area in north-western New Mexico are to be restored under the direction of Earl H. Morris of Boulder, noted archeologist. Among the decaying structures to be restored is a stone building with more than 500 rooms. Morris has been "loaned" by the Carnegie institution to the public works administration for the job.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 27.—On October 27, 1855, a nine-year-old boy, standing on tiptoe, passed $3.10 through the teller's window at the Lynn Five Cent Savings bank.

Every October 27 since then—for 78 years without a break—this same depositor has appeared at the bank and deposited $3.10.

Councilmen Meet To Frame Budget

Councilmen-elect Attend Sessions As Figures Are Being Compiled

Present members of city council and directors-elect Joseph Alexander and B. F. Butler met informally today and commenced compilation of appropriations for the operation of the city government during 1934.

Although Councilmen Louis Genkinger suggested that Alexander and Butler endeavor to agree upon what departments they would head during their stay in office it was indicated by Mr. Butler that neither Alexander or he had discussed the proposal.

In fact Mr. Butler indicated that he would let council designate the departments and when it was apparent the situation could not be solved at this morning's session, the officials and those soon to take the oath commenced compilation of the budget.

It is rumored that Butler will become the director of streets and public improvements and Alexander will head the department of parks and buildings. These posts will be vacated Monday by Stanley Treser and Louis Genkinger, respectively.

A total of $401,053 was appropriated for the expenses of the session. The biggest item was salaries and traveling expenses for members —$139,617.20.

CURB THE JAYWALKER

TRAFFIC rules are intended to govern traffic in cities. Not alone motor traffic but pedestrian traffic. The pedestrian has the same right to observe caution in his progress across streets as does the motorist but it seems that here in New Castle the motorist is expected to observe traffic lights and at the same time be on the lookout for jaywalkers.

It is time that a stop was put to this dangerous practice of downtown jaywalking that has been increasing all too fast. Pedestrians should cross main streets at intersections and on green lights. The fact that a citizen is on foot gives him no right to endanger himself and others by darting out from between cars in the middle of a block.

During the week just passed the Guardian Angels must have been on the verge of a nervous breakdown caring for pedestrians on Washington street.

Let's take some of the burden off the Guardian Angels! Let's curb the jaywalkers!

JUST ANOTHER CONFERENCE

The unproductive results of some recent international conferences suggest that they may presently go out of fashion. Thus the Pan-American Conference adjoins with very little to show for its deliberations.

Yet it would be too much to say that it was held in vain. One notable action was the recognition of the full equality of women in the matter of citizenship. To deprive a woman who marries a foreigner of her national status without giving her that of her husband is both an injustice and an absurdity. Now that women have the ballot in so many countries it has become a futile anachronism. Opposition came, strangely, from American delegates.

The Chaco dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay, which had reached the stage of undeclared war, was one matter the Conference could not well overlook. But the negotiations for a settlement were finally left in the hands of the Special League Commission.

The Conference at least had the negative virtue of continuing amicable relations among the nations of the Western World.

FOREIGN TRADE ON THE MEND

A most cheerful note, in keeping with the season, is sounded for business in the report of the United States Chamber of Commerce showing a decided pick-up in American export trade since June.

Gains have been registered in 61 of the 102 leading export items, with raw cotton and automobiles and parts holding the center of the stage with striking increases in comparison with corresponding periods last year.

This is a worth-while index of improvement. The gains noted are the more remarkable because of the many confusing factors in world trade this past year, market restrictions, foreign exchange uncertainties and disturbed political conditions.

Our export trade is going into high again.

MONACO PRESENTS A LITTLE BILL

The principality of Monaco, whose chief source of revenue has been the once thriving casino at Monte Carlo, has been scraping the bottom of the barrel lately. In the course of this operation, to which it has been driven by the depression, the principality has found itself the possessor of certain bonds of the state of Mississippi, U. S. A., with a par value of about $100,000, on which no payment of interest or principal has been made since about the year 1840. The principality of Monaco has applied for privilege to sue the state of Mississippi in the supreme court of the United States for recovery on those bonds, which seem to have been given to the principality at some time or other by three persons who said they inherited them.

The bonds are part of two issues, in 1831 and 1838, totaling 7 million dollars at 5 and 6 per cent. They were known as the Planters Bank bonds and the Union Bank bonds, respectively, and were to provide funds for the establishment of state banks. They were sold extensively in England and Holland. The banks which were set up by the bonds, however, did not prove successful, many of them failing in the panic of 1837 and its reverberations which continued until 1841. A number of states suspended interest payments on their bonded indebtedness and congress disclaimed any federal responsibility for the debts of the states. Florida for instance repudiated all its bonded debt when it became a state in 1845, on the ground that it had been a territory and could not constitutionally have incurred those debts. Mississippi and Michigan repudiated certain of their issues during this period on account of "fraud and illegality."

In applying for permission to sue in the supreme court, our friends in Monaco have put it very diplomatically and with a liberal dash of characteristic Gallic charm: They wish, so they say, "to give to Mississippi has been consciously laboring along under this stigma for ninety years—probably to be brought out in future proceedings—we suppose that unfortunate state's eagerness to clear up its good name will depend largely upon how much interest Monaco will demand. If Mississippi can rid itself of a stigma, even one it had forgotten it had, for $100,000 or thereabouts, we should say it is a bargain. But 6 per cent compounded for ninety years runs pretty high, and, considering the way times are, some states would prefer to worry along with the stigma.

At any rate, it is interesting, almost on the very date some of our European debtors gave up polite but firm notices of default on debts a year or so overdue, to find among them a creditor who rises to remark that while we're on the subject, he has a little matter on one of our own states has done nothing for ninety years. And is our face red?—Kansas City Star.

A circle is a line which meets its other end without ending.

Two-pants suits just increase the difficulty of remembering where that key is.

We haven't yet seen a manufacturer of hair restorer who gave a comb with every bottle.

About the time a boy gets over being proud of his music, he begins to think he understands women.

A successful business man is never concerned over a covetous competitor who spends his time wishing.

Tell them often enough and the people will believe anything. Even that the movies are getting better and purer, and is our face red?

All Of Us

BY MARSHALL MASLIN

LIFE IS MADE OF THESE

Beauty has many shapes, comes in various guises, bares her face to us when we least expect it. . . . Comes dreaming, comes challenging, comes comforting, comes in little incidents, comes in great adventures, comes when we expect her glorious presence, comes most surprisingly. You let your memory idle through the past and many memories of Beauty drift through and make a pleasant pageant of the hours you have lived. . . . And in that pageant are such memories as these:

A mother with a sleeping child in her protecting arms.

A puppy at your front gate, frantically wiggling and wagging because you have come home again.

A bare tree against the sky, as beautiful then as when it is cloaked in green.

Peace and happiness on some homely old face.

The gleaming, wet streets of your home town at night, with all the colored lights of the city glistening.

The light shining out through an open door, making a golden rug across the yard for your coming steps.

A well-made salad. . . . The soft green of the lettuce. The bright red of the tomatoes. The gold of the mayonnaise.

A brave kitten, back arched, tail puffed out, daring a great dog to come one step further.

The forgiveness of a beloved one.

Hard won weariness after useful work.

A little boy asleep in his bed, all that incessant activity comes to rest, his arms lying quietly, that angelic look upon his face.

Horses, free, kicking and running in their pasture.

Any good piece of work—a chair, a painting, an engine, a house—honestly made and ready for use.

One of any of these things, and thousands more, Beauty comes into a life.

When a friend states that he cannot accompany you on a trip or engage in something for pleasure which requires a financial outlay, don't try to persuade him against his better judgment.

Even though you may be good friend of his, he may be unwilling to say exactly that "he" cannot afford it.

The expenditure may be so insignificant to you that you cannot imagine it could affect him to a serious degree.

And while the expense of it might not cramp him financially, it is probably that he knows that it would lead to other outlays the sum total of which might draw heavily on his reduced income.

Usually there is some good reason when your friend turns down an invitation to do something you both enjoy.

It is unkind to press the person to forget expense and say that you will pay it.

Your friend does not want to accept charity and that is what he would consider it, even from you, if you were to settle the bill.

Many of your friends are in straightened circumstances this year. You'd be surprised if you knew how many.

FRIENDLY GREETINGS

Once in an old time picture book my father called on me to look upon a miser, counting gold. Within his hovel bleak and cold. A little chest of brass-bound wood. Upon the floor beside him stood. The room was bare and he appeared.

As ragged as his untrimmed beard. A creature most forlorn and sad. Counting the dearest friends he had.

'Tis strange that picture I should find. Still fresh and vivid in my mind. And after all the years recall. That miser of my boyhood small.

Yet suddenly I seem to be. Counting my friends the same as he. And gloating (yes, the term is right) Not over coins of metal bright.

Beyond a miser's wildest dreams. Which brought us love and kind regards.

Here for a happy hour or more I've run these Christmas greetings o'er.

Each one a friend, who, far or near. Has sent me a line of cheer. Behold the stacks! I'll swear it seems Beyond a miser's wildest dreams.

Again I gloat: "Friends, everywhere!" And still not one that I can spare. Here in this lovely tinselled heap. Are riches that I hope to keep.

Volatile Trend In Spain Laid To Lack Of Definite Policies

Americans Expect Little Effective Action By Radicals In View Of Turn To Right Which Was Indicated In Recent Elections

There is little expectation in this country that violent and radical elements in Spain will make any permanent impression on the government. It is observed, however, that there is an element of danger to orderly conduct of affairs in the lack of clearly defined policies in the present situation. To some the tendency seems toward a state of affairs such as were rise to the success of Mussolini, while one suggestion is that the monarchists provide funds for radical agitation, in order to embarrass the present regime.

"Will Spain revert to Fascism?" asks the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, pointing out that the "pro-republican" character of the revolt. Although it can hardly be said the government has the situation well in hand, it should not be possible for the revolutionists to gain any practical headway against a government supported by the strong popular majority which the recent elections showed.

"With the strongest party no longer in a position to govern Spain," thinks the UNIONTOWN HERALD "and with the other parties broken up into twenty or thirty bitterly hostile factions and cliques, it is obvious that the erection of a firm and enduring government is still some distance off. The revolution was overthrown when it came. Spain is now paying the penalty in the form of weak governments and continued revolutionary disturbances." The Herald suggests an obvious reason for uncertainty: "Since the extremist groups have no financial resources of their own, it is supposed that they are being supported by the reactionaries, certain industrialists and the leaders of the embryonic Fascist movement, all of whom seem to have plenty of money though they lack courageous followers of their own political faith. The reactionaries, it is suggested, hope either to restore the monarchy or set up a Fascist dictatorship when the extremist disorders have gone so far as to undermine the present Government. We do not pretend to know whether the reactionaries are really financing the syndicalists and

JUST CONVERSATION

The man who asked his friend, "How is your wife today?" and added, "not that I care a rap, but just for the sake of conversation," possibly might furnish a clue to why so many foolish questions are asked. The answer often add to the spice of life as did the answer of the brakeman to an inquisitive passenger.

The train had stopped in the yards, and the brakeman became tired of answering stupid questions.

"What's the matter, brakeman?" came yet another query.

"The signalman up there has got red hair," replied the brakeman, "and he can't get the engine to pass the tower."

Pinchot Likely To Swing Ax On Appropriations

Bills Put Thru Legislature Call For Expenditures Of $136,000,053

COMPOSITE VIEW OF BALANCE SHEET

By G. EVERETTE DOYING, International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Appropriations, perhaps never before qualified in volume at a special session of Pennsylvania's general assembly, confront Gov. Gifford Pinchot upon his return to the state capital.

Bills pushed through the legislature during the six week session call for expenditures of $136,000,053. The total revenue estimates to finance this mammoth financial program are $100,500,000.

Although the governor claims the budget remains balanced, the bills and estimates at this time leave an excess expenditure of $35,500,053.

To make the figures coincide, it undoubtedly will be necessary for the chief executive to exercise his power of slashing appropriations.

The first document likely to feel the axe is the Talbot bill appropriating $40,000,000 for relief during the remainder of the biennium.

The governor urged the appropriation be held at $20,000,000.

Because only approximately $1,000,000 of the federal public works loan must be repaid during this biennium a deduction of $9,000,000 can be made on this issue.

Although the time for paying old age assistance was cut in half, the legislature only slashed the $8,000,000 to $6,000,000, making it possible for the chief executive to cut away an additional $2,000,000.

Many expect he will reduce substantially the deficiency appropriation of about a half a million dollars to Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin's department.

The financial balance sheet left by the General Assembly follows:

Appropriations

Soldier's bonus (bond issue, $50,000,000)

Bonus administration cost $35,000

Acquisition of toll bridges (bond issue) $10,000

Emergency relief, $40,000,000

Old age assistance (for rest of biennium, $6,000,000)

Blind pensions (for rest of biennium) $1,310,000

Construction of a new tuberculosis sanatorium, $800,000

Emergency appropriations to schools, $5,000,000

State public works program (federal loan only, $10,000,000)

Cost of establishing state liquor stores, $2,000,000

Improvement of Indiantown gap reservation, $350,000

Deficiency appropriations to executive and judicial departments $1,147,000

Appropriation to legislative liquor investigating commission, $10,000

Cost of air cooling systems in senate and house chambers, $40,000

Cost of special session, including printing, etc., $401,053

Total appropriations $128,000,053

Deficiency caused by 4 mill bank deposit tax repeal, $3,000,000

Total to be expended $136,000,053

Estimated revenue to meet expenditures:

From bond issues, $60,000,000

From pre-repeal liquor floor tax (at least) $12,500,000

From states stores profits and permanent tax $28,000,000

Total estimated revenue, $100,500,000

Excess of expenditures over revenue, $35,500,053

An identification card in his pocket carried the name of Rev. James Lewis of New Orleans, La. The killer, known only by the nicknames "A. T." and "Man O' War," escaped.

AROUND CITY HALL

Dr. William L. Steen, the city health officer, is one man who plays an important part in the health of every individual in the city. No difference whether the illness be scarlet fever or whooping cough he is on the job. As soon as a report from the attending physician is received it is Doctor Steen's duty to have the home quarantined and he does it, no difference who the patient may be. He makes various examinations. For instance last month he examined 22 samples of water and also tested six samples of water obtained from wells and springs. He makes sure milk sold here is up to the standard and that it is clean milk. Thirty three samples of milk were examined last month. No truck driver knows when a sanitary policeman will take a bottle from his truck for analysis. As the city health officer, Dr. W. L. Steen has an important job and he does it.

Among the terms which will expire March 1 are those of Miss M. Lillian Perry, deputy in the office of Finance Director A. A. Hoyland; Mrs. Jennie Sankey, chief clerk at the city assessor's bureau which also is in Mr. Hoyland's department; Dr. W. L. Steen, city health officer; Howard Phillips, superintendent of the collection of garbage; Miss Myra Nixon, city health department clerk; and George W. Nickum, city electrician, all of whom are in the department of public safety, headed by Councilman D. O. Davies; C. G. Walker, the city motor mechanic who is also an employee of the department headed by Davies; Street Commissioner Harry Moore and Charles O'Brien, streets department clerk who are in the department headed by Councilman Stanley Treser. The terms of H. C. Stockman and Jimmy Thomas as chief and assistant chief of the department of fire, headed by Davies, also expire. However, even though they should be changed, of which there is no present likelihood, they would under civil service regulations, continue as firemen.

When the rails, removed from Hamilton street, East Long and North Beaver street, sold by city council to a local dealer in junk are weighed the city will be paid for every ounce of steel. Sometime ago, it was intimated during council Tuesday, there was a question raised about weight of rails sold, but there will not be this time. A. Reid English, the official scaler of weights for the city, was instructed by council to personally supervise the weighing. The successful bidder, Albert Gabriel, will truck the rails from where they now are stored to an approved sale. He is paying $10.30, a gross ton, 2,240 pounds, to the city. The city will realize about $400 from the sale of the rails.

Should you pass the doorway of Mayor Mayne's private office today and hear a jargon of voices just ascribe it to Budget making as the five present councilmen with two of the directors-elect are in session. The councilmen state what they must have and by the time they leave the budget room they are fortunate to have one quarter of what they asked for. Last year a committee convened with the council. They had asked for a reduction in taxes. After they had gone over the figures with council one of them remarked that "I don't see where you could have done any better." With the assessed valuation several million dollars below that of the present year, council will have to do some tall economy to keep the millage where it is now.

No doubt when many of the younger folk of the city read of Police Chief John Haven's warning to them not to hook sleds to automobiles they declared: "The big bad chief" but should they pause one minute and think, they will regard him as a life-saver. John Haven, and for that matter, Peter Hilliers and all of the police who issue orders, want to see youngsters have all the fun they can as long as they do not jeopardize their lives or the lives of others. The chief of police legally cannot set aside a street for sled riding purposes. The moment he does, he makes the city liable for accidents it is said and his superior, the mayor, or perhaps other councilmen would call him upon the carpet and ask him if he knows his job. The primary duties of a chief, lieutenant or any other officer of the law is to protect life and property and while it may seem hard on youngsters when they are stopped from sledging on a street where there is automobile traffic the officers claim it is only a protective move for the best interests of all parties concerned.

Seeks To Release $50,000,000 Payroll

Secretary Ickes Moves To Free Enormous Sum For Public Works Improvements

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—With increasing pressure for every remaining dollar of the dwindling public works fund, Secretary of Interior Ickes moved today to free more than $50,000,000 in potential pay-roll money, tied up because of dilatory procedure by the communities to which it was allotted.

Ickes can, under the law, transfer such funds from inactive to more aggressive communities. Work on 307 non-federal projects is in suspense because the communities to which these have been awarded have failed to return agreements for grants, and bond purchase contracts so that money could be released to them. Under the law, until contracts are actually executed, the money can not be given out.

Of the number involved, the public works administration sent out 172 contracts prior to Dec. 1 and 135 since then.

The plain truth about liquor, it's not sufficiently exhilarating, sufficiently harmful or sufficiently anything to justify all the fuss that's been made about it.

International Spy Ring Was Shadowed During Stay In U.S.

Reveal Lydia Tchakaloff Stahl Was Student Of Chinese Philosophy At Columbia

Draftsman In Brooklyn Naval Yard Was Offered $1,500 For Specifications

By THOMAS F. CULLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Lydia Tchakaloff Stahl, Russian spy and student of Chinese philosophy who is under arrest in Paris with others of an alleged international espionage ring, was revealed here Tuesday as one of a group of Europeans who two years ago were under investigation by the U. S. Naval Intelligence and the department of justice for trying to buy secret plans from an employee of the navy.

Mrs. Stahl posing as a student of philosophy at Columbia University and devoting some time to the Chinese branch of that subject was apparently using this to cover her activities in the field of international intrigue.

Was Shadowed. With several men whose names officials of the department of justice refused to reveal she was being shadowed by operatives of that department and of the naval intelligence when they learned of the attempt to purchase naval plans.

A draftsman in the Brooklyn navy yard was approached and it is said was offered $1,500 for certain specifications.

He reported that matter to his superiors and he was instructed to continue negotiations with the ring in the meantime these people were placed under surveillance and their every move closely watched by government agents.

Lived Modestly. Officials of the department of justice are giving consideration to the theory that some of the other individuals arrested in France with the Stahl woman are part of the same group which tried unsuccessfully to obtain confidential information about Uncle Sam's navy.

Living in a very modest apartment on Cathedral Parkway West in a dingy building she apparently sought in this way to cloak the real reason for her presence in this country.

Mysterious Visitors. Mysterious visitors are said to have called on her at this rendezvous and here was the base of operations for the spies.

This ring is said to be in the employ of no one foreign power, but operates as a brokerage house for international secret information. Getting whatever they can in the way of data which one country might like to know about another, the information is then bartered by the group.

To Highest Bidders. The country offering the highest price is the one with whom they close their deals.

Investing whatever funds are needed to bribe employees in possession of confidential intelligence, they then seek a market for their wares.

Many of the Parisian members of this coterie are school teachers, as is Lydia Tchakaloff Stahl. This gives them a chance to visit foreign nations for the ostensible purpose of continuing their studies and through their apparent pursuit of knowledge they are able to meet people who may have data which they can obtain for the international espionage market.

It is believed that the department of justice will have the state department co-operate with the French authorities in unearthing all the details of this system of world wide spying.

Government officials would not admit that they think the Paris group is one and the same as the New York ring of two years ago, but they are carefully examining all the dispatches from abroad.

Lydia Tchakaloff Stahl is reported also to have spent some time in Washington during her visit to the United States, and is alleged to have done some entertaining there. In cases where bribes of money can not be used to obtain information, social entertainment and flattery are used by persons seeking to wheedle state secrets.

Washington, the city in the United States most susceptible to this form of intrigue would undoubtedly be a base for the illicit operations of people in a business like the Stahl woman.

The naval intelligence in New York arranged to allow an employee to sell some worthless plans in order to trap the associates of Mrs. Stahl who were at that time conducting the negotiations. When the plan was about ready to be consummated the ring apparently learned of the government surveillance of their movements, and hurriedly left for Europe without trying to conclude the purchase.

Had the deal gone through they would have bought worthless paper and would have been prosecuted for having illegal possession of government property.

Sharon To Get Liquor Store

Liquor Board Reverses Earlier Decision Not To Put Store In Sharon

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—The state liquor control board reversed an earlier decision today and decided to establish a state liquor store at 174 East State street, Sharon.

Despite opposition to a store in the Mercer county city, Judge Robert S. Galt, chairman of the board, said an option has been taken on the property. Arrangements are being pushed to have the building ready for occupancy by January 2 when all stores open for package sales.

Earlier the board had abandoned plans to establish a store at Sharon because of numerous protests. Since that time, however, considerable requests have been made for the dispensary.

The board did not name any manager for the Sharon store. He will be selected from a group of three persons, Karl W. Mardesteek, Sharon; Max H. Markovitz, Farrell; and John R. Daly, Greenville, who have been selected to manage establishments in Mercer county.

anarchists. Nor does it seem particularly important if they are. It is highly unlikely that the current wave of disturbances would have spread so far and taken such a high toll of life were it not for the fact that the extremists have the moral backing of countless dissatisfied workers and peasants. These were the people who "made" the revolution of 1931. They saw in the establishment of a republic the fulfillment of their own desires. Restlessness throughout the world is cited by the MIAMI DAILY NEWS as an explanation of the disturbed conditions in Spain, with the conclusion that the ultimate goal must be justice for all elements in the citizenship, while the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN concludes: "The Spaniards have shown that they desire democracy shot through with the color of socialism; on the other hand, they equally distrust a return to the monarchy. It will take years of pain and suffering before Spain finally evolves a workable political system to accord with the temperament and customs of the people."

Mandamus Hearing Thursday Morning

Case Of Thayer Company Against Controller R. C. McCaslin May End Controversy

Hearing on a mandamus brought by The Thayer Company, architects, against County Controller R. C. McCaslin, to compel the issuance of a warrant for the payment of commission alleged to be due for drawing plans for the new court house, will open before Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers at court tomorrow morning.

The Thayer Company will be represented by members of the law firm of Aiken and Braham, County Controller R. C. McCaslin by his attorney, Orville Brown. The county commissioners will be represented by their solicitor, John T. Lockhart, if it is deemed necessary.

The issue involved will be largely technical, involving an interpretation of the law, relating to the duties and powers of a county controller.

The cost of the proposed court house, jail and sheriff's residence is estimated at $650,000. Under the contract which The Thayer Company has made with the county commissioners, with the approval of the court, his total commission would amount to six per cent of that amount, or $39,000.

Under the terms of the agreement The Thayer Company was to receive twenty per cent of the commission with the completion of the preliminary plans. In accordance with this provision the Thayer Company presented a bill for $7,800, which Controller McCaslin has held up.

The controller takes the position that he was not consulted and had nothing to do with the making of the contract. He therefore does not want to put himself in the position of being surcharged, if the law is interpreted to mean that the contract should have had his approval. The court's decision is expected to settle this point.

Unemployment Relief Figures Given By State

Over Half A Million Dollars Spent In 13 Months In Lawrence County

ADMINISTRATION COST PLACED LOW

From September, 1932 through October, 1933, the sum of $534,579.21 was spent in taking care of unemployed persons and their families in Lawrence county, figures just compiled by Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board show.

This sum of money was needed to care for 5,024 cases during the peak of the depression period, which was shown to have been reached in April, 1933.

The estimated number of totally unemployed persons in the county fluctuated between 11,285 in December 1932, and 13,759 in March 1933, which was the peak. By the last of October of this year, the number of unemployed had dropped to 8,929, the lowest it had been during the depression period.

Peak Reached In March

In spite of the fact that there were a great number of families on relief, the state emergency relief board was only spending $2,532 for assistance in September 1932. The balance was being paid by the county and by local welfare societies. State assistance began to increase in October 1932, and the peak was reached in March, 1933, when $53,668.79 was spent by the emergency relief board, who were then taking care of practically all of the assistance being given unemployed.

For the 12-month period ending August 31, 1933, $451,292.79 was spent and the two succeeding months brought the total for the period to $534,579.21. In October of this year, the amount expended was $42,636.23. Of the total sum expended, $478,316.51 went for food; $40,363.61 for fuel; $8,891.83 for administration, and $7,007.26 for thrift gardens. The amount expended for fuel in Lawrence County was much less than in many counties, due to the fact that the unemployed mined their own coal from the coal field at the New Castle Mining and Clay Products Company holdings along the Harlansburg Road.

There was no money paid out for administration expense until May, 1933, when the cost was $309.51. Much of the work was done by volunteer workers, and employees of the county welfare department. By October, 1933, the amount had grown to $2,558.54.

Highway Work Helped Expenditures by the Department of Highways for work relief are also shown by the Emergency Relief Board, the total being $50,961.65. This was much less than a majority of the counties received, only 13 counties receiving less. The greatest amount expended was in May, 1933 when the figures were $12,424.80. In Bradford county, one of the smaller counties of the state in point of population, the sum of $219,900.44 was spent in work relief. Butler county received $191,108.03; Mercer county, $88,548.98; and Beaver county, $43,933.55.

Between December 15, 1932 and August 31, 1933, 3,692 pairs of shoes were shipped into the county from the Board.

It is estimated that the retail value of the garden products raised from seeds, etc., supplied by the emergency relief board, was $41,193.90, from an expenditure of $7,007.26.

Dr. John Meehan Is Temporary Chairman For President's Ball

Following a meeting held in the office of Fred L. Rentz Tuesday afternoon, December 26, Dr. John P. Meehan was appointed temporary chairman of the President's Ball to be held here on January 30, and a further meeting within a few days will see the appointment of a committee and the beginning of active work in the matter.

Sometime ago Henry L. Doherty, national chairman of the President's Ball, asked Mr. Rentz if he would not head the committee here or have some one head it. Because of his expected absence from the city the latter part of January Mr. Rentz felt it would be better to have some one take the work over who would be here on the night of the ball. He asked Attorney Wilbur J. Baer, who is the state committeeman of the Democratic party here to meet with him and ask several people interested to attend. Mr. Baer and the following people met with Mr. Rentz Tuesday afternoon, Dr. John P. Meehan, W. K. Boyd, Mrs. William J. Howley, Miss Margaret Uhl, Carl Hauffler, Secretary of chamber of Commerce A. W. Chilton and Bart Richards.

It was the consensus of the meeting that because of the non-partisan flavor of the ball, it would be better to ask some one not interested in politics to act as general chairman and this will be done. Dr. Meehan merely acting as temporary chairman.

The purpose of the President's Ball on January 30 is a dual one. Not only will it honor the birthday of President Roosevelt but it will also be used as a means of raising funds to aid the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia. Here President Roosevelt was wonderfully aided in his fight against infantile paralysis and since that time he is helping to bring the Foundation to the attention of the American public.

In every city and town in the country January 30, a ball will be held and from each person attending, it is expected to net one dollar for the Warm Springs Foundation. Committee appointments and a report on the progress of the arrangements here will be made in the near future and by the first of the year it is expected that the committee will be headed towards a successful ball on January 30.

Following the meeting Mr. Rentz notified Mr. Doherty of what had been done here.

"What do you mean, 'very much,' Judge Van Zile asked.

"I like it as much as my wife," Prigionigro replied. Wilson was sentenced to a 90-day jail term.

Pen Sentence For Man Who Burned House

John Makinen Sent From Two To Four Years To Penitentiary This Morning

SENTENCE SUSPENDED IN D. PITZER CASE

John Makinen, of Bessemer, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the Western Penitentiary for arson, at county sentence court held by Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers this morning. Makinen was convicted of setting fire to his own house at Bessemer. He made an application for a new trial and this was recently refused. It was claimed at the trial of the case that the house was heavily insured.

Defendant denied that he had set fire to the house, but the circumstances surrounding the case, which included the insurance and the fact that piles of kindling wood were found, led the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty.

Other Cases In the case of David Pitzer, Jr., of the firm of Pitzer Brothers, in which he was charged with a violation of the act regarding the placing of revenue stamps on liquor bottles, Pitzer entered a plea and sentenced was suspended upon the payment of costs.

It was shown that there was no intention to defraud the government of tax. Pitzer Brothers had purchased stamps for beer and wine bottles. However they found that the stamps came off when the bottles were immersed in ice water, and they adopted the plan of placing the stamps in a case with the beer or wine.

The specific charge grew out of sending some wine to a man named Wolfe, in Bessemer. The stamps had not been attached to the bottles, but were sent in the case. Mr. Wolfe had the stamps to show that they had been sent.

The alleged violation came soon after beer and wine became legal and before manufacturers attached stamps. There were several others who were to have been sentenced, but they did not appear.

THIS TIME IT IS DIVORCE "FOR KEEPS"

(International News Service) DENVER, Colo., Dec. 27.—Watson Bidwell used his success as a bean grower as a stepping stone to an art career. The youthful Colorado rancher-artist whose water colors have won prizes in recent Denver exhibitions, raised pinto beans on a 300-acre tract in northern Colorado until he had made enough money to finance an art course. He is an instructor in a Denver art school.

Federal Relief Act Helps Nation's Transient Jobless

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 27.—Diverted from freight trains, "jungles" and cheap lodging houses, thousands of jobless itinerants from all sections of the country are being sheltered in California under special appropriations of the Federal Relief Act.

This was the announcement of R. C. Branion, state emergency relief administrator, in analyzing six distinctive projects of winter relief now under way by federal, state and county governments.

Regular employment at a living wage is provided by the Civil Works Act, the other five projects furnishing food, clothing and shelter for unemployed men and women and their dependents.

Administrator Branion reported that a one-day census of itinerants was held in an effort to circle the transient relief problem in California.

"The wanderers were counted wherever they could be found; in 'jungles' on freight trains, in cheap lodging houses, in wheezy automobiles passing through the agricul-

Neff Must Serve Life Term; Court Appeal Refused

Cyrus Neff, Canfield Lumber Dealer, Will Be Taken To Ohio State Prison

APPEAL TO STATE COURT IS PLANNED

(International News Service) YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 27.—With the jury's verdict upheld by the court of appeals at Toledo, Cyrus H. Neff, wealthy Canfield lumber dealer, convicted wife slayer, today was ordered to prepare for entrance to the Columbus penitentiary to begin serving a life term.

An appeal was heard a few weeks ago on a point of change of venue from this district. The common pleas verdict of second degree murder was upheld by a two-to-one, Judge Harry Lloyds dissenting. In his opinion Judge Lloyds held Neff was guilty only to the grade of manslaughter and suggested modification of the life sentence. The majority, however, affirmed the jury decision.

Mrs. Neff was fatally shot last October 20 while asleep on a couch in her home. Police said death resulted from a charge of a shotgun in the hands of her husband. The defendant had contended the shooting was accidental.

An appeal to the state supreme court is said to be under consideration.

Until Christmas day, Reppin has said he would rather die than spend his life in prison. His vigorous change of mind came suddenly.

Reppin fears the new kind of death with a horror that makes pins of fire of his beads, closely-set eyes.

Reppin has assumed a deeply religious attitude, reading a Bible and other religious works avidly.

GETS TWO BEARS WITH ONE SHOT

(International News Service) CLAWSON, Mich., Dec. 27.—Two bears with one shot is the claim of Dr. H. W. Tusison, local dentist, following a hunting trip into northern Michigan. He said he drew a bead on a mother bear, but instead hit a half-grown cub by her side, the bullet passing through the cub and striking another cub behind it. He has the bears and the testimony of two witnesses to vouch for his story.

New Machine Gun Is Invented In Japan

Report Gun Will Fire 29,075 Shots Per Minute And Is Operated By Gasoline

American Claims That New Death Weapon Is Exactly Like One He Invented

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—A sensational and revolutionary high-speed machine gun operating by gasoline, whose details correspond amazingly with the weapon just announced as invented in Japan, was created and tested in the United States as the world war came to its conclusion.

This was revealed here today when investigation in the file of old photographs sent out by International News Service in 1918 unearthed a complete set of pictures of the unprecedented death-dealing weapon.

According to the records of the time, the gun was invented by Leavi W. Lombard, of Boston, who in cooperation with Earle Ovington, of Santa Barbara, Calif., offered it to the United States government.

So closely does that weapon correspond to the gun explained in cables early today from Berlin, that it would have been possible to write a description of the Japanese apparatus from the captions to the photographs of the various parts written in America in 1918.

However, while the Berlin despatch describes the Japanese gun as operated by gasoline, Lombard in 1918 said his could be run on gasoline, steam or by hand.

Lombard said it could shoot 33,000 shots a minute, whereas the Japanese engineer who claims inventing it says he can fire 29,075 shots a minute with his weapon.

Lombard's gun, like the Japanese, operates by centrifugal force.

Vets And Ladies Plan Christmas Party Thursday

Joint Entertainment Of Post And Auxiliary Will Be Featured By Dinner

Arrangements are complete for the annual Christmas party of the Harry L. McBride Post, V. E. W. and its Auxiliary, which will be held Thursday evening in Glendennin hall.

The program of the evening calls for a seven-course dinner, which will be served promptly at 6:30. Every person is expected to bring his own table service, as there are no articles of this nature at the hall.

Immediately following there will be a program of entertainment which will consist of readings, musical numbers, and dances, by the children. In conclusion, there will be old-fashioned dancing, and the music is in the nature of a surprise.

There will be a treat for everyone, the committee announces.

Mrs. Ruth Conner, of the Auxiliary, has charge of the program of the evening, while James Davis is in charge of the arrangements for the post.

he has to sell. He has no fixed salary paid him for the labor which is required of him to operate his farm. As for voting for the million dollar bond issue for good roads a few years ago, times were booming, money was plenty. Take a vote on the same issue by the property owners today and see if (NO) is not the majority. Put this bond issue for these landmarks to a vote of the property owners, and see what their attitude is.

All the relief workers these projects will maintain would only be a drop in the bucket to the million dollars that would be spent. Also, this government gift of thirty per cent of the cost will have to be paid back through some course of taxation or revenue. Our government, my friends, are our big tax banks that support her. In closing, let's build the landmarks and place a tax on incomes to pay for them, and see who's toes are being pinched.

I thank you.

END FIRE QUICKLY

Remembering by experience that some of the most serious fires occur on extra cold nights, the Seventh ward firemen were prepared for an all night outing if their services were required, last night.

Kiwanis Club Hears New Year's Message

Beaver Falls Episcopal Pastor Speaks At Noon—Install Next Week

A Beaver Falls minister, the Rev. Ernest Risley, pastor of the St. Mary's Episcopal church there, in New Year's address before the local Kiwanis club at The Castleton today, offered a series of three simple specifications upon which he suggested the Kiwanians build their lives during 1934.

"First, with what God has spared you, go straight along toward some worthwhile goal. Second, keep your eyes on your own goal—not on someone else's—and go plugging along, and third, go straight forward not weighted down by the animosities, the grudges, the chips, the I-can't-get-overs and I'll-get-even-somedays that hold you back," declared Rev. Risley as he summed up his timely message. The address was delivered in the everyday language that leaves its deep impression.

The New Castle Kiwanians will meet jointly with the Ellwood City Kiwanians in The Castleton on Tuesday evening, January 2, when the new officers of both clubs will be installed by District Governor Meyers B. Horner of Washington, Pa.

Sex Appeal In Movie Laughs Clocked By Alert Sound Men

By TED SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 27.—"It's gone right into the sound mixing rooms of the movies under the new guise of laughter.

In other words some movie laughs have "sex appeal" according to Franklin Hansen, Paramount's chief sound engineer, and some don't.

The sound mixing rooms incidentally, are the little chambers where an expert sits during the filming of every scene. He hears the voices through his microphones but doesn't see the action. Before him are knobs to twist that raise or lower the volume and even change the pitch of a person's voice. And the sound experts should know "it" when they hear it.

"You can't build the effect of laughter with make-up clothes, or gestures," says Hansen.

"Obviously, the sound apparatus pays no attention to props. Yet when certain performers laugh and the sound mixer catches the vibrations in his obscure booth, their tones register a definite quality of "it."

Hansen made up a list of movie stars, most of whom he worked with, who have "it" in their laughs, as well as in their figures. His list is Miriam Hopkins, Dorothea Weick, Carole Lombard, Claudette Colbert, Norma Shearer, Kay Francis and Joan Crawford.

"Miriam Hopkins, I believe, has a greater sex appealing laughter than any other star," says Hansen. This type of laughter, Hansen points out, has only to be heard to be enjoyed.

On the other hand, there is laughter that must be seen as well as heard—and Mae West and Clara Bow fall into this classification, according to Hansen.

Among the male opponents of laughing sex appeal Hansen lists Frederic March, Clark Gable, William Powell, John Boles, Gary Grant and Bing Crosby.

Kiwanians Stage Annual Treat For Home Children

Hearts of nearly 50 children of the Margaret L. Henry Children's home, Friendship street, developed that one-and-a-half-time beat in rapid flash last night when the local Kiwanis club, accompanied by jolly, old Saint Nick himself, returned to the home for several hours to generate the holiday delight they have furnished the youngsters for the past 11 or 12 years.

It's an annual custom for the Kiwanians, together with their wives, to go to the home after Christmas each year to watch Santa Claus distribute the load of toys and good things that the club provides for the kiddies. And, strange as it may seem, Santa Claus this year found his post-Christmas schedule allowed him to be here personally for the celebration he always likes to share.

Surprise Program Enjoyed

In the playroom of the home, decorated for the holiday season, a crowd of 40 Kiwanis folk and outside friends enjoyed the evening program, and, like before, the children surprised the clubmen with a fitting Christmas entertainment which proved the highlight of the evening.

Songs, welcome songs and other jolly ones, and acrobatic performances, speeches of a holiday tone and military drills by the boys and an impressive Christmas pageant, "We Three Kings," were the chief numbers of the program which the youngsters gave. It was so arranged that every child of the home had a part in something. And, too, the arrangements were extra-special, created especially for the Kiwanis treat.

Saint Nick Is Present

Toward the close of the evening Old Santa, personified for the 15th consecutive year by William Way, took charge of everything and presented to the children their useful presents. Even the pet dog, "Shep," and the canary, "Rudy Valce," came in for their share of gifts, and this greatly amused the youngsters.

During the evening a 20-minute period of magic entertainment was furnished the boys and girls by Donald Hoffmaster, a Union high school teacher.

President Norman E. Clark spoke the official greetings for the club and afterward introduced the incoming president, J. Daniel Reebel.

After the program, the visitors enjoyed an informal visit with the happy youngsters.

Serving on the Kiwanis treat committee were Fred C. Wolford, chairman; John Kaylor and Ideman L. C. Mantz.

Zero Doesn't Halt CWA 'Chain Survey'

Downtown Washington Street Covered By Corps Of Map-Makers Today

While the mercury hovered a few degrees above the zero mark today a warmly-clad corps of CWA engineers went about its task of completing a "chain survey" of Lawrence county's state highway route unaware—or at least without much thought—of the "frigid temperature" the chain survey involves.

The chain survey involves the measurement of every state highway route and Pinchot road in the county, as well as the city thoroughfares which connect the state highways here. The CWA is financing it while the state highway department is supervising it.

The crew of six young men spent part of their time today in New Castle proper, measuring the snow-covered East Washington street. Early today they were at work in the downtown sections.

Out along the highways, it is said, the chain corps notes down intersections and other outstanding landmarks which every highway map maker considers a guide. Accurate road maps will be prepared from the survey the corps is making for the benefit of the motorists of the state.

During the next week a new corps of six men will take up the work of surveying the routes while the corps at work today will rest. The two crews alternate their work.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Firemen answered an alarm from Box 714 at 10:40 last evening calling them to 208 South Wayne street where there was a chimney burning out at the home of Ray Spray. There was no damage.

Nearly 1600 On CWA Jobs Now

At noon today, 1431 men and women were working on the projects of the Civil Works Administration in Lawrence County, according to Administrator L. B. Round. This does not include 40 at the State Game Farm and a number on the state highways which are listed as CWA jobs but do not come under the Administrator. This means that approximately 1600 are on CWA work here now.

At the present time there are 42 projects under way, with the balance of the 114 nearly ready to begin. Workers are at Cunningham Park and Dean Park today doing the preliminary work and with the disappearance of the snow, large forces will be sent in to these projects and the work speeded up.

Electric lights have been installed at the Ray street quarry and a night shift has been put to work. Calls for stone have increased to such an extent that it was felt necessary to start the night shift.

BABY TO UNDERGO BRAIN OPERATION

(International News Service)
BALTIMORE, Dec. 27.—Defying death and the challenge of hazardous flying weather, James R. Weddell, noted speed pilot, early today brought his racing monoplane to a landing at Logan field here after a dramatic 12-hour dash through stormy skies from Houston, Tex., to save the life of a five-month-old baby.

The infant, Sue Trammel, daughter of W. B. Trammel, president of a Houston Gas Company, was transferred immediately from Weddell's plane to a waiting ambulance and rushed to Johns Hopkins hospital. There she was to undergo a delicate brain operation which physicians have declared necessary to save her life.

What Will Congress Do First When It Meets January 3?

Six Prominent Senators Give Their Views On Nation's Most Important Problems

(By Central Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The Congress of the United States convenes on January 3. Of the many matters of national and international importance that confront the Congress, which are considered most important—which will be taken up first?

Central Press put the question to six prominent Senators. Here are their answers:

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, Republican:
Things change so fast these days that I would hesitate to say what should be the most immediate action taken Congress when it convenes January 3rd. One of the first things that should be done, in my judgment, is to modify and clarify the emergency farm loan provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act so that its purpose of refinancing farm mortgages facing foreclosure can be effected.

In regard to the money question, I have been advocating the stabilization of the purchasing power of the dollar for several years. To my mind we should have a dollar constant in relation to all commodity values, rather than simply constant in the weight of one commodity value, even if that is gold. The stabilized dollar, however, should be tied to a metallic base, either gold or possibly gold-silver.

To attempt to return to the gold standard at the old weight of gold would, in my judgment, be disastrous. We cannot go through another period of deflation and survive. On the other hand, I am not in favor of unlimited currency expansion by the printing press route, nor by the stock market route. It is my belief that the stabilization of the dollar—and I believe it should be close to the 1926 level—should be accompanied by a rigid regulation of the stock and commodity exchanges, to prevent a market inflation that would be as fatal in its results as would a currency inflation.

Senator Hamilton F. Kean, of New Jersey, Republican:
I think, upon the convening of Congress it should take some steps to amend the Security Act so as to correct many glaring faults. In addition to this it will be necessary that some provision be made for the regulation of the liquor business and the fixing of proper taxes thereon.

Senator M. M. Logan, of Kentucky, Democrat:
You ask what in my opinion is the most immediate action that Congress should take on convening. My answer is that I do not know. Matters are changing so rapidly that what seems important at the present time may be of lesser consequence when Congress meets. I am in complete accord with the plans of the President on the money question. My personal view is that when the President has established

Four Fishermen Drowned In Lake

(International News Service)
MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec. 27.—Four men were drowned in Lake Michigan here Tuesday when mountainous waves demolished the fishing tug "Martha" as the boat was approaching a landing.

The victims, all of Michigan City, were: Walter Biddle, 32, William Klemick, 41, two unidentified men. The ship literally fell apart before coast guardsmen could make any rescue attempt.

Codes for various industries are based on cost of production and the farmers must have the same consideration. If we are going to have anything like prosperity, the purchasing power of the farmer must be restored through giving him an adequate price for his products that will give him a profit above the cost of production.

Bankers and other industries have been given a moratorium and the farmers and home-owners are entitled to the same consideration. Inflation will also be an important question that must be considered, as well as amendments to the Economy Act to restore at least a good part of the compensation and pensions taken away from the veterans of various wars.

Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, Republican:
I believe that the question of sound money is the most vital of all problems before the people at the moment. The whole recovery program is dependent upon the preservation of sound money, and I believe that the Congress should consider this subject first of all upon its convening in January.

The history of nations is punctuated with the tragic results of currency tinkering. I hope that no such mistake will be made by this country in its present economic crisis.

LOCAL HOLIDAY MAIL SERVICE BEST IN YEARS

Residents Got Mail Promptly All Last Week—Two Rush Days

Reporting the Christmas mail business for this year as "satisfactory," New Castle's post office officials today related how the personnel of the office kept the mails moving last week as never during a holiday period before.

Figures revealed that Tuesday was the peak day although Wednesday's receipts were only short $7.45 of the Tuesday total. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday the business dropped steadily back to normal.

Expressing their satisfaction over the holiday volume this year, officials pointed with pride to the fact that not one piece of holiday mail was held in the office overnight at any time last week. If a package was received on a certain day it was delivered here the same day.

To give the New Castle residents the best service they possibly could was the aim of officials from the very outset, and two mail deliveries in the residential district on Saturday were made to do this. Every Christmas parcel which reached the office up to 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon was delivered to their local addresses that afternoon or evening.

The business of the office this Christmas was carried on with an auxiliary staff, much smaller in size than the extra staffs of many past seasons.

The money order department of the office was rushed Tuesday, officials said, by applicants for 1934 automobile licenses. It was expected the demands on this department would continue to be heavy for the remainder of this week.

Continuance Of Compliance Boards Asked

County Emergency Councils Will Augment Work Of Boards Within Month

NRA TO CONTINUE WORK NEXT YEAR

Desirability of continuing the NRA Compliance Boards after December 31, is expressed in a letter received by Marcus Feuchtwanger, chairman of the New Castle Compliance Board, from President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It had originally been intended by the president, that the work of the NRA and its many functioning bodies be discontinued on December 31. Now, however, it is seen that the work they have been carrying on must not be stopped for the present.

The letter received by Mr. Feuchtwanger, follows:
"Mr. Marcus Feuchtwanger, Chairman New Castle NRA Compliance Board:
My Dear Friend:

"Since the formation of the local NRA Compliance Boards early in September, you have been unselfishly volunteering your time and efforts in securing and maintaining compliance with the President's Reemployment Agreement. Your sympathetic co-operation with the National Recovery Administration in this period of emergency has assisted

Thousands of Employers and Employees to a Fuller Understanding of Their Obligations.

"Although the President's Reemployment Agreement was originally intended to terminate on December 31st of this year, it has now been found desirable to extend it. The job of obtaining compliance which you have been performing so diligently during the past few months can not be stopped now. Therefore, I urgently request you to continue the work of your Compliance Board. I am fully aware of the difficulties and complications that you have encountered thus far and in asking you to carry on your work a little longer I wish to express my sincerest appreciation and express my confidence in your continued support.

"Within the next month County Emergency Councils, organized under the supervision of the National Emergency Council, will be established throughout the country. These councils will form a coordinating and centralizing body for all the recovery agencies. I hope that you, as a member of the Compliance Board, will co-operate with your county council in successfully carrying out the aims and purposes of the National Recovery Program.

Faithfully yours,
FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

NEW DUAL CARBURETION AND DUAL INTAKE MANIFOLD ADD TO POWER AND ECONOMY OF THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1934

LIKE a pair of lungs for this powerful motor, this new system of carburetion and intake supplies vaporized gasoline evenly to all eight cylinders. Two distinct advantages result from it:

1. More even compression of fuel, giving still greater power, faster acceleration, quicker starting and smoother performance.
2. More complete utilization of fuel, more miles to the gallon, with consequent economy. Crankcase dilution is reduced to a minimum, thereby conserving oil with still further economy in operation.

Increased efficiency at less cost is a notable achievement. Yet it is only one of many improvements which distinguish this new and greater Ford V-8 for 1934.

Clear-vision Ventilation. Constant Supply of Fresh Air without Drafts or Obstruction to View

As perfected in the New Ford, this system of ventilation operates efficiently at all speeds, winter or summer.

In cold or stormy weather, the new adjustable window ventilators can be opened the desired amount to provide fresh air. Individual control on front door and rear-quarter windows enables passengers to obtain desired ventilation without causing discomfort to others. Windshield and windows do not fog when ventilators are opened.

In warm weather, the windshield—which opens—and the cowl ventilator provide additional fresh air.

This New Ford is a more comfortable car. It has new spring flexibility, improved shock absorbers, softer seat springs, and deeper seat cushions.

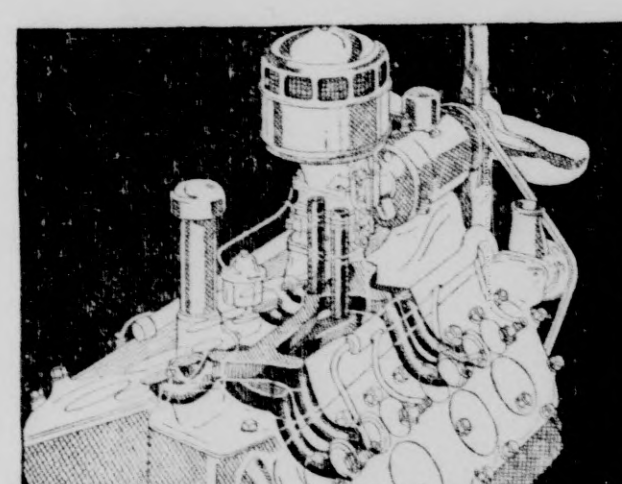

It is a handsomer car. New lines, new radiator shell and grille, new interior design.

But above all it is an efficient and economical car, and an automobile on which you can depend for long and satisfactory service.

Seven Changes Would Be Made In Grid Rules

National Coaches Association Frowns Upon Many Of Changes Suggested In Report

CONVENTION TO BE ENDED TODAY

By LEO FISCHER
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Having suggested enough football changes in their opening session to keep the sports world buzzing for some time to come, members of the American Football Coaches' Association gathered today for the second and closing day of their annual convention.

A big banquet was divided into two portions. The first, starting at 9:30 a. m., was devoted to committee and district reports expected to consume the entire morning.

The afternoon meeting was to be a symposium on various phases of the game, with various experts in their line leading the discussion. Hugo Beydeck of Pennsylvania State College was to give a talk on coaching.

With this out of the way, the nominating committee was to make its report on the slate for next year, which will undoubtedly be inducted into office without opposition.

Kipke Reports.

Highlight of the opening session was Harry Kipke's report as chairman of the rules changes committee. If the seven suggestions made in his document are adopted by the rules committee, the game will be a vastly different sport, next year, and probably an improved one, since the changes will make for faster, more open, and more spectacular play.

The seven suggestions, which Kipke declared represented the sentiment of most of the 600 members of the association, drawn from every part of the United States, were as follows:

1. Permit forward passing from any point behind the line of scrimmage.
2. Move the goal posts back to the goal line.
3. Abolish the rule which makes the ball dead if any part of a player's body outside of hands or feet touch the ground.
4. Increase the "sideline zone" from 10 to 15 yards.
5. Restore the old fumble rule so that either side may advance a recovered fumble.
6. Adopt a "windy day" rule which will permit teams, by agreement, to suspend play for a period of 10 minutes if the wind is blowing down the field instead of punting.
7. Make forward passes into the end zone count for a down only, except on the fourth down, instead of a touchback as now.

May Adopt Two.

Just how many of these suggestions will be accepted by the rules committee remains to be seen, but judging from the sentiments expressed around the meeting, the fourth and seventh have the best chance.

The sideline rule, as adopted for this season, has speeded up the game considerably. It provides for the ball to be brought back to a point 10 yards from the sideline if it goes out of bounds or is downed within that distance of the line. By increasing the zone to 15 yards it is felt that it will help even more.

There is also a strong possibility that the dead ball, fumble and goal-post suggestions will be smiled upon by the code makers, since they ask for the elimination of three recent rules which haven't proven particularly successful. Kicking field goals has become almost a lost art in the colleges since the goal posts were moved ten yards farther away from the field, while the fumble rule has removed a good deal of color from the sport, it is claimed. The dead ball rule, in effect for two years, has done little except to cause a lot of grief to coaches who have had the ball called down when one of their men is out in the clear and trips while headed for a touchdown.

MODESTY SEEMS TO BE HIS LONG SUIT

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 27.—Stephan Tomko Jr., an unemployed miner, has been awarded a Carnegie medal and $1,000 for rescuing a girl from drowning in a Wilkes-Barre township pond several weeks ago. The award will be made on January 8.

Tomko, 24, a former pugilist, modestly said he performed the act of heroism after others refused to dash into the freezing waters, because he "wore the oldest clothes."

Idle for the last three years, Tomko has been "bitching" in a cellar. Asked what he would do when he received the small fortune after a prolonged period of need, he replied: "I suppose that calls for a drink."

DARTMOUTH DENIES (International News Service)
HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 27.—Dartmouth University today denied reports that Andy Gustafson of Pittsburgh would coach the Green football team next season. Harry Henese, athletic director, said Gustafson was only one of seventy who had applied for the job and no decision will be made for at least a month.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York yesterday won the medal in the thirty-first Pinehurst mid-winter championship with a 37-35 for a card of 72. His score was one over par. His nearest rival was Eric Thomson of St. Andrews, N. B., who had a score of 78.

Paul Dean, Columbus hurler and young brother of Dizzy Dean, was the leading pitcher in the American association last season. He played in 43 games and compiled the lowest earned run average, 3.15. In games won and lost he was second to his teammate, Clarence Heise, who won 17 and dropped five for 7.73. Dean won 22 and lost 7 for 7.59. Dean led the league with 222 strikeouts.

John Buckley, Boston boxing promoter, has been suspended in both Massachusetts and New York. The ban came as the result of his criticism of the Massachusetts athletic commission. The New York commission has a working agreement with the Massachusetts commission, hence his suspension in New York.

Cleto Locatelli, lightweight champion of Italy did so well against Tony Canzoneri in his first scrap he has been given a second chance to beat Canzoneri. They will box in New York in a 12 round bout January 12.

SO HUNGRY THAT HE PINCHED STOCKINGS

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Charles C. Kay, negro, of Atlanta, Ga., was hungry when he stole a quantity of women's stockings from a local store recently, he told the Dauphin county court.

"Were you also hungry in all these other cases?" President Judge William M. Hargest asked as he looked over a long record of offenses by Kay, extending over a period of more than 15 years and committed in virtually every state in the country.

Kay admitted he was. "A fine of $5 and six months to three years in jail," was the court's disbelief of his prolonged hunger.

Could Have Avoided Football Injuries, Coaches Are Told

By LEO FISCHER
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—More than one-fourth of all football injuries could have been avoided in 1933 by "adequate leadership," according to Floyd R. Eastwood of New York University, whose report on this phase of the game Tuesday opened the annual convention of the American Football Coaches' Association.

The report on injuries in football was the first to be made today, and was to be followed by another important one, that of the committee on changes in the rules.

More than 100 colleges in 38 states were surveyed to provide the material for the report of the committee on injuries headed by Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens, former Yale head coach. "Preventable" injuries were listed under three headings: Administrative control, such as inadequate coaching, poor playing fields, etc., 17.7 per cent.

Training controls, such as fatigue, etc., 4.9 per cent.

Physical condition, 5.2 per cent.

Injured Blocking

Of the 653 injuries reported, it was found that 204 were incurred while the player was blocking or attempting to block another player. The next largest number, 154, were due to tackling, 119 by the player who was blocked, 72 by defensive linemen, 60 in line plunging and 44 by players tackled.

Not much of the report was devoted to fatalities, although it was stated that only 28 of the 37 deaths attributed to football in 1933 could be directly traced to grid injuries. Of them 12 were received in sandlot games, 20 in amateur contests, 12 in high school and 2 in college contests.

Shotton May Not Be Manager For Phillies In 1934

Status With Phillies In Doubt According To Report Today

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—The precise status of Manager Burt Shotton's affiliation with the Philadelphia National league club during the coming season remained in doubt today.

Jimmy Wilson, the brilliant backstop acquired by the Phillies in a deal with the St. Louis Cards, was reported as telling friends in Bradenton, Fla., where he is sojourning, that he was coming north within a few weeks to take over the managerial reins.

Burt Shotton, the incumbent, stated at Winter Haven, Fla., that he is manager of the Phillies and will be for the next two years by virtue of a contract that doesn't expire until late in 1935.

Polish Falcons Win League Game

Polish Falcons Defeat Beaver Falls Falcons 15 To 13 In Over-Time Period

Joe Augustyn, former Union High star center won the league game for the Polish Falcons of New Castle last night at the Miller Ave. floor by a score of 15 to 13 when he shot a field goal in the final few seconds of an over time game with Beaver Falls. The battle was close and interesting all of the way. Everyone of the New Castle Falcons scored one or more points.

Columbia Team In Good Shape

Coach Lou Little Has Columbia Team Set For Tough Battle With Stanford

(International News Service)
TUSCON, Ariz., Dec. 27.—There must be something in this western climate that breeds confidence in oneself, said Lou Little, coach of the Columbia football team today as he drove his football warriors through another long drill.

"We in the east," said Lou, "are used to the advance predictions of victory coming from California and now my own team seems to have imbibed the spirit. My boys feel they are going to cause quite an upset when they tackle Stanford in the Rose Bowl New Year's day. I only hope they are right."

In Good Condition

Little's chief worry today was the weight of his players. Several of them notably quarterback Cliff Montgomery, were underweight when they arrived here but playing in the evening as they did yesterday, the boys avoided the heat and regained some of their lost poundage.

To a neutral observer it would appear that Little has his charges as fit as any team that ever trod a gridiron. He says they can all go 60 minutes, barring accidents, and this may be the factor that will decide the issue.

Columbia will take its last workout Saturday morning and slip into Pasadena as quietly as possible Sunday and rest up for the game the following day.

Helen Wills Is Winning Battle

Famous Tennis Queen May Again Enter National and International Competition

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—Helen Wills Moody is winning her battle to "come back."

The famous queen of the tennis courts may again enter national or international competition in 1934.

Careful adherence to the "doctor's rules" together with her famous indomitable will, it was revealed today, are slowly overcoming the back injury which forced her to abandon temporarily the game.

"I'm feeling so much better these days," she said, "and I am eager to get my hands on a racket again."

Mrs. Moody is keeping herself in condition by swimming and walking. "The doctor says I can't play tennis for a while so I try to keep in condition by swimming practically every day."

"I don't know now to swim very well, but it's a lot of fun and marvelous exercise."

"But I miss tennis like everything."

Tin City Rovers To Play Tonight

Coach "Fiz" Fraser Will Send Locals Into League Game With Butler Quintet

New Castle's Tin City Rovers basketball team will play its second Penn-Ohio league game here tonight by tangleing with the strong Penn Drakes or Company D team of Butler. The main game starts at 8:30 o'clock with the preliminary game starting at 7:30 o'clock. The game will be played at the Senior High floor on Lincoln avenue.

Coach Arnold "Fiz" Fraser has the Tin City Rovers at their best tonight for their second league engagement at the home court. The forwards will likely be Jimmy Shaffer and Gerald Newton, with Sillander, in center or Bruce Alexander and Sillman and Gennock at the guards or Patterson. Hutchison of New Wilmington will also break into the lineup of the locals.

The Butler team comes to New Castle with a string of victories over some of the leading semi-pro basketball teams of this district. In the league they are fighting for the top. New Castle's Tin City Rovers will have their hands full. Butler has defeated the St. John's of Sharon and the Beaver Falls St. Mary's team.

Basketball fans of New Castle are assured of seeing a high class attraction tonight at the Senior High floor, according to an announcement from Raymond H. "Mickey" McBride, the genial business manager of the team.

FAST PRELIMINARY GAME

The Ben Franklin Junior high varsity team will tangle with the newly organized Flintex team tonight at the preliminary game at Senior High to the New Castle Tin City Rovers-Butler game. The preliminary will start at 7:30 o'clock. A good game is anticipated by the followers of both teams:

Sutherland Is On Record Against Football Changes

University Of Pittsburgh Coach Would Leave Rules Just As They Are Now

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27.—Coach J. B. "Jock" Sutherland of Pitt goes to the annual gathering of the Football Coaches' Association harboring the opinion that the intercollegiate grid rules should stand as they are.

"It is not a very popular idea," commented Sutherland for International News Service when told of the movement to adjust present rules to permit additional scoring and prompt diversified offenses.

Sutherland, according to all indications, will align with the faction favoring re-tention of the amateur code in its present status upon his arrival in Chicago where the coaches are meeting today.

Good Defense

Nationally known for his consistently strong defense units, Coach Sutherland said of the low-scoring games in which his Panthers and the west coast champion Stanford Indians were involved during the past season.

"A glance at the schedule of either team will explain why their scoring was held at a low point. Pitt and Stanford lined up each week-end against national powers that fought to the last breath, and under the circumstances one-sided results were not in order."

Spectators, he said appear to be getting plenty of thrills from college football as it is now played.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

In a beautiful dramatization of the life of Christ the members of the Methodist church presented a delightful pageant in the church auditorium on Tuesday night.

With the auditorium darkened, thirty of the children of the Sunday School marched through the aisles of the church bearing candles and singing a beautiful Christmas carol. Dressed in black skirts and white shirts they presented a beautiful picture.

The curtain was then raised showing Mary and Joseph at the Inn where they were refused admittance. These parts were admirably portrayed by Kathryn McClure and Benjamin Kauffman. The next scene dealt with the shepherds watching their flocks while the glaring light of the eastern star shone upon them. The choir, hidden behind curtains and led by soloist, Miss Mary Clark, sang "Star In The East."

To the majestic strains of "We Three Kings of Orient Are" Thomas Rogers, Robert Mounts, and Miles Anderson filed majestically down the aisle, attired in the costume of the wise men, and followed them as they marched.

When the curtain was raised for the finale, Mary and Joseph were shown kneeling by the manger. The four shepherds marched in, paid homage to the new Lord as the three kings did when they presented their incense and myrrh.

RFC Planning Railroad Aid

Steps To Assist $2,300,000-
000 Railroad Financing
In '34 Being Worked Out

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Steps to assist the $2,300,000,000 railroad financing next year were under consideration Tuesday by the R. F. C. Chairman Jesse H. Jones said the government must help but it cannot carry the entire load. Several railroads including the New York Central and the Illinois Central have already approached the corporation as to this financing.
Jones said he believed less than 400 banks in the country would fail to qualify for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. It was thought likely that some of these could be brought into the insurance fund after January 1.
Jones disclosed the corporation had brought $25,631 ounces of gold valued at $17,594,000.
A total of 4,170 banks have applied to the corporation for the purchase of preferred stock, 3,467 having been approved to the extent of $197,400,000. For deposit liquidation $582,000,000 have been loaned to 1,352 banks.

Loan To Pennsy Is Worked Out

Pennsy Will Borrow $84,000-
000 For Electrification Of Lines In 1934

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Details of the pending $84,000,000 loan for electrification and other improvements on the Pennsylvania railroad have been worked out and a contract is being completed covering the loan. Secretary of Interior Ickes stated Tuesday.
The contract was held up for some time because of differences on wage questions between the railroad and public works officials, but the announcement today was taken as an indication that these have been satisfactorily adjusted.

A sufficient commentary on our times is the fact that the best-known Senators are the worst ones.

New Racket Worked On Beauty Parlors

Said Attempts Are Being Made
To Collect License Fees
By Swindlers

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—An apparent attempt to mislead beauty culturists in obtaining licenses which will be required by the state after January 1 has been reported to the Department of Public Instruction. Information has come from beauty shop operators in Brookville, Meadville and Canton indicating that a supposed representative of the Pennsylvania Hairdressers Association has been collecting $10 to cover membership fees in the association and also to include the cost of the 1934 license of the beauty shop owner or operator. It is reported that this representative also left the impression that by paying the $10 the applicant would not be required to take a state board examination.
Department officials declared that all applications for beauty culture licensing must be filed by each individual to be licensed, and accompanied by the full fee required by the act passed at the 1933 regular session of the legislature.

Wanted Hardest Number On List

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Here's the other side of the story about motorists who want special numbers—usually so they won't forget them easily.
A York applicant wrote the bureau of motor vehicles the following request:
"Please give me the hardest to remember number you have left so that the cops will not be able to remember it too easily. Thank you."

TROLLEYS TO JOIN ONE-HOSS SHAY

(International News Service)
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Dec. 27.—Trolleys were on the way to join the one-hoss shay and other outmoded means of transportation here today as 275 men went to work removing the tracks, poles and wires of the trolley system that was abandoned early in the summer after 40 years of continuous operation.
The last vestiges of the local trolley system are being removed as a civil works project. Buses replaced trolleys here.

HOLDING WELL

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The stock market presented a steadier appearance today after early weakness. The firm tendencies were most apparent in the industrial, motor, and utility divisions, while the rails continued to meet with offerings.

The selling of the rails was apparently due to the apprehension of traders and investors over the ability of many carriers to successfully meet their 1934 bond maturities which will be moderately heavy next year. New York Central was singled out for selling losing more than a point, while Southern Railway, Lackawanna, Union Pacific and some of the lower priced issues lessor losses.

United States Steel and other prime industrial stocks resisted the selling fairly well after the early offerings had been disposed of and managed to pare their initial losses. General Motors and Chrysler were in fair demand after the start.

A rebound in Consolidated Gas helped the utility shares to regain their composure following yesterday's sell-off. Public Service of N. J., North American and American Telephone also were improved.

The commodity markets were mixed with wheat and the other grains fractionally lower while cotton was practically unchanged from yesterday's close.

For Two DeathsSentenced This Morning For Involuntary Manslaughter
After ConvictionENTERED A PLEA
TO SECOND CHARGE

Curtis Aiken of Ellwood City, convicted of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Bessie Braden in an automobile accident, was sentenced to serve one year in the Allegheny county workhouse, at county sentence court held by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers this morning.

Two persons were killed in the accident, the other being Henry Bianco. After the verdict had been returned in the Braden case, Aiken entered a plea in the Bianco case, was sentenced to serve one year on this case also, but as the sentences are to run concurrently, the total amount of time served will be one year.

The accident which resulted in the death of Miss Braden and the Bianco occurred on the Ellwood-Ellport road. Some young people were returning from Ellport to Ellwood, having attended a party at Ellport. Aiken was driving in the direction of Ellwood. It was foggy and he claimed that he did not see the people on the road until he was nearly to them. There were several walking on each side of the road, and in trying to avoid striking one party, Aiken ran into the other, killing Miss Braden and Bianco.

Dillinger Gang Is Crazy To Kill Policemen Learn

Police Given Warning That Dillinger Gang Of Desperadoes Will Shoot
To Kill

ARE FORTIFIED
AGAINST ATTACK

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Information that a carefully rehearsed plan of resistance would confront them should they encounter six members of the John Dillinger gang of escaped Indiana convicts, was in the hands of police here today.

The man who warned police that the desperadoes are daily rehearsing their parts for a battle to death was Edward Shouse, who was one of them until captured last week at Paris, Ill. Following his capture Shouse was returned to the Indiana state penitentiary at Michigan City.

Crazy to Kill
There Shouse told Sergeant Dan Healy of the Chicago police that the Dillinger gangsters' main topic of discussion in their hideout is the killing of policemen.

"They are all kill crazy and that's why I left them," Shouse was quoted as telling Sergeant Healy. "I left them on November 18 in Chicago. John Dillinger, Harry Pierpont, Russell Clerk, Charles Mackley and John Burns were living together then. I think they are still together."

"If you policemen are married men with families I warn you to be careful about trying to take the other members of the gang," he said. "Every night they have a drill and each takes the position assigned to him in the event police surprise them."

Shouse said the escaped convicts freed Dillinger from the jail in Lima, O., following their escape because Dillinger was the one who had sent guns to the Michigan City prison with which they were able to gain their freedom.

Steel Industry Is Encouraged By 1934 Outlook

Morale Of Steel Industry Is Greatly Strengthened
By Activity

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 27.—Its morale "greatly strengthened," the steel industry today was writing the finish to 1933 with a burst of activity even greater than in the peak year of 1929 and looking forward to 1934 as a banner year for recovery, according to the magazine Steel.

Operations during the current week will hover around 40 per cent of capacity, marking the first time in many years that there has not been a sharp decline at the end of the year.

"A December, with shipments highest for the month in many years and heavier demands just ahead, has greatly strengthened the morale of the industry," said the trade publication.

Many sources in the industry expect operations to hit 70 per cent by late spring. There will be a lull for the first 15 days of the new year but immediately afterward automobiles manufacturers and railroads are expected to make heavy purchases to maintain the market until spring.

BOARD OF TRADE TO MEET THURSDAY

Thursday night in the office of Alderman J. Lee Cooper of East Long avenue, the members of the South Side Board of Trade will hold their final meeting of the year. Maurice Markley, president announced today. The session will commence at 8:00 o'clock.

On Court House Hill

Fishing licenses for 1934 have been shipped from Harrisburg to county treasurers' throughout the state, County Treasurer, William O. Pitts is expecting to receive his quota today or tomorrow. While there is little weather for fishing now, and most of the game fish are out of season some of the warmer winter days are said to be ideal for suckers and other smaller fry. In order to obey the law fishermen must have their new tags, if they fish after January 1.

Sheriff Elect-Taylor, of Green county, called upon Sheriff Frank Johnston today to secure pointers on how to run a sheriff's office. Sheriff Johnston took Taylor thru the jail, explaining how the prisoners are handled and how they are fed. Sheriff Taylor was greatly interested in the culinary department, as he realizes that feeding his inmates is no small task. Green county is considerably smaller than Lawrence, so far as population is concerned. The average number of prisoners in the county jail there runs around 25 to 35, while in Lawrence county it runs from 45 to 55, and there are times when there are as many as one hundred prisoners in the county jail at one time.

Fifty-two deeds, mortgages and other instruments were recorded at the register and recorder's office last week. The deeds numbered 18, as against 28 recorded during the previous week. Some of the deeds recorded during the week ending December 16, however, were sheriff sale deeds. During the past week the total number of mortgages recorded was 15, amounting to a total of $31,020, as against a total amount of $22,838, during the previous week. Four of the mortgages, amounting to $6,570 were in connection with financing under the Home Loan act, making the largest number for any one week since the work was started here. Five mortgages, amounting to $16,850 were to building and loans, presumably refinancing operations; three mortgages amounting to $4,900 were to the Land Bank commissioner. One was to a trust company for $1600, and one personal loan of $1100.

Register and Recorder Jeannette Hutton, reports that commissions have arrived for fifteen aldermen and Justices of the Peace. These are for officials chosen at the recent general election. About a half dozen justices who were elected, refused to serve. In some of the districts of the county, the office of Justice of the Peace, is not a very lucrative one. However, there is some satisfaction in being called "Squire."

Letters of administration in the estate of the late Albert Morgan of New Wilmington have been issued to Attorney William McElvee, Jr.

Since CWA workers are now being paid in cash, the county commissioners have been receiving many applications for jobs, by persons who want to earn enough money to pay their taxes. One man, who called at the commissioners' office this morning said that he owed taxes for three years and is out of work. He said that he was very anxious to get his taxes paid, and was willing to do anything. He and others who call upon the commissioners are told that they do not handle this work, and are directed to headquarters in the Johnston building.

When the new officials are sworn into office on January first, the county will be without any women office holders, aside from deputies. Two women have held office in recent years, Miss Jeannette Hutton, register and recorder and Miss Adda Smiley, county treasurer. Miss Smiley relinquishes office when William O. Pitts was elected treasurer and Miss Hutton, will step aside for William R. Hanna.

Attorney C. W. Fenton is one of the most versatile members of the bar. When at home in Shenango township, he directs his attention to farming, and when in his law office he takes a fall out of Blackstone. Just now he is devoting his evenings to a study of Alfalfa. He expects to show Shenango township farmers how the crop should be raised. It is a comparatively new crop in Lawrence county and there are many farmers who do not understand its culture. If they call at Fenton's farm, he will show them for nothing but if they go to his office they can trade their experiences along some other line for what Fenton knows about alfalfa.

Injures Leg In Auto Crash

Condition Of Thoroughfares
Cause Two Accidents
Here

In attempting to drive past a parked car on the state street hill last evening Clyde E. Nelson, Lancaster, N. Y., sustained an injured leg, he reported to police.

When he turned out to pass the parked car he endeavored to straighten his car and it skidded and struck a machine driven by James B. Graham of Akron.

There were three ladies in the latter car. They were made quite nervous by the accident. Nelson was thrown from his car. The condition of the thoroughfares also resulted in a collision on Neshannock boulevard when the car of Myrtle Molz R. D. 1, New Wilmington skidded into a car driven by Joseph Warsco of R. D. 5, city.

"Thrill Slayer" Being Hunted

Michigan Police Hunting
For Young Man Accused
Of Slaying Young Deaf
And Dumb Girl

(International News Service)
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 27.—A 20-year-old "thrill slayer" who, police say is anxious to shoot some policemen "just for the fun of it," was sought throughout Michigan today for the "lovers' lane" murder of a pretty young deaf and dumb girl.

Officers have been instructed to protect themselves by shooting to kill.

The fugitive is William McMann, 20, step-son of a city fireman. He is accused of killing Margaret Peavey, 22, attractive deaf mute, with a pistol borrowed from a special deputy sheriff.

The girl's body, her head battered and three bullets in her brain, was found Saturday when a "lovers' lane" parking place about three miles east of here.

Sheriff Kelly said acquaintances of the fugitive described him as "a nut on guns and murders." Philpott said the youth once told him he would "like to get into a fight with some deputies and bump a couple of them." The sheriff said three other witnesses quoted the youth as saying he would enjoy "knocking off" any officers who tried to arrest him, just for fun.
